This Pānui brings the exciting news that Robert Geffner is coming to New Zealand in April. Dr Geffner has an international reputation as a researcher, trainer, practitioner and consultant with particular expertise in children's exposure to family violence and issues relating to child custody. The Clearinghouse will host a free workshop focusing on policy and practice issues in Wellington \(11 April\) and a free seminar on child custody evaluations where there are allegations of child abuse and/or IPV in Auckland \(16 April\).

Other news, views, and happenings in brief:

- The Family Violence Indicators report (2013) by Pauline Gulliver and Janet Fanslow is now online. The Families Commission has also published a four page summary report focusing on the key points
- Pauline Gulliver and Robyn Dixon have published new research on the immediate and long-term outcomes of assault in pregnancy
- Shakti Community Council in collaboration with the It's Not OK Campaign, has produced a new booklet, Culture: No excuse for abuse
- The US-based Domestic Violence Evidence Project combines research reviews and profiles of innovative, culturally-responsive and evidence-based programmes and practices, to expand the field's capacity to more effectively serve survivors and their families and help build a more robust body of evidence
- New resources from US-based Futures Without Violence have just been added to our collection. These include the Healthy Moms, Healthy Babies training curriculum and two highly recommended DVDs - Something My Father would Do and First Impressions on exposure to violence and a child's developing brain. These resources can be borrowed from the Clearinghouse.
